William and Mary Nine Shows Up Well

Coach Driver Works Hard To Develop Additional Pitchers

The baseball material that is working out daily on Cary Field has the making of the best team which will have represented William and Mary in years. The unknown quantity is whether Coach Driver can find two pitchers to share with Thompson, the only dependable first-string pitcher to return. "Giraffe" Stephens, a giant right-hander and one of the mainstays of the 1920 nine, is still suffering from an injured shoulder, and cannot be depended upon to deliver the goods. The most promising candidates for hurling duty are Saffele, of Alexandria High, and Bill Cox, victor over Delaware last year.

Cox supplemented his varsity experience here by a very successful season of "summer baseball" in Pennsylvania where he won eleven out of seventeen starts with the Emeus Club. He is beginning to show, even this early in the season, the effects of the instruction he received from two ex-professionals on the Emeus nine. Driver is expecting Cox's right arm to play a prominent part during the coming season.

Bob Saffele comes from Alexandria with local recommendations sufficiently strong to merit him a position in professional circles. Besides being an excellent pitcher he is said to be an all around fielder and a heavy slugger. Although the rangy Alexandrian has not been allowed to open up yet, he certainly has good form and a slow over-hand delivery that is deceptive, to say the least.

Lane, Cain, Gregory, Richmond and Smith complete the list of pitching candidates. Gregory, a product of Maury High, has very good form and is regarded highly by the Coach in spite of his diminutive size. Smith, a south paw who was too wild to be of any use to the team last year, appears to have acquired fair control since last spring.

It is too early to speculate on Cain, Richmond, or Lanes's ability, although

NORVELLE L. HENLEY

Honorable Norvelle L. Henley, Distinguished Alumnus, Dies

Failing to rally from the effects of a delicate operation, Norvelle Light-foot Henley, member of the House of Delegates from James City County, died last Tuesday afternoon in the Johnston-Willis Hospital at Richmond, where he had been critically ill for some days.

Mr. Henley was taken ill while in a cafeteria in Richmond Saturday afternoon, and was rushed to the hospital, where an emergency operation was performed immediately. His heart showed a dangerous weakness. Despite every effort to stimulate his heart action, the weakness could not be overcome.

Mr. Henley was born May 10, 1869, in James City County, at the family home, "Pleasant Hill." He was the eldest son of the late Judge Richardson L. Henley and Ida Dudley Spencer Henley. In 1888 he was a student at the College of William and Mary, and afterwards read law under his father in the latter's office at Williamsburg. He later attended the law school of the University of Virginia. Since his admission to the bar he has been engaged in the practice of law in Williamsburg, first with his father, and later as senior member of the firm of Henley, Hall, Hall and Peachy. He served three terms as Commonwealth's Attorney for James City County, from which office he resigned to become a candidate for the Legislature. He served three terms as delegate from the Counties of Charles City, New Kent, James City and Warwick.

Mr. Henley was married in 1896 to Miss Edmonia P. T. Turner, of New Kent County, who survives him.

Faculty Baseball Team

Numbering among its membership many ex-baseball stars, the faculty has organized a baseball club, due to the endeavors of Professor Voke, who will manage the strong faculty nine. Professor Siersma will coach the team. Practice will begin within a few days in preparation for the first challenge accepted by any intramural baseball club. The ex-sackers extend a challenge to any class, fraternity or organization on the campus. A game with the freshman physical education class has already been arranged.

Zehmer, ex-catcher for William and Mary, will guard the home plate for the faculty tossers. Gwathmey, ex-pitcher of Richmond University, will be the pitching ace. The infield can draw from five former baseball stars: Robb, Rowe, Siersma, Simmons and Voke. The outfield will have at its disposal four flashy air-tights: Fichtner, Doloff, Jones and Lyons. The resources of the infield and the outfield are inexhaustible.

If any class, organization or fraternity feels that it numbers within its folds any baseball talent, put it against the strong faculty nine, which has graduated in this kind of sport known as baseball, played by nine men. See Manager Voke relative to arranging games.

Ex-Governor Frank Lowden Will Be Com- mencement Orator

The Board of Visitors has set aside Wednesday, June 13, as the date for Senior Celebrations. Dr. Chandler announced at Senior chapel exercises on Wednesday morning.

Ex-Governor Frank G. Lowden, of Illinois, will be the speaker of the occasion. Dr. Chandler also announced that the graduation exercises would be held at 11 A. M., as formerly they were held, instead of at night.

It is also probable, Dr. Chandler stated, that the same day will be designated as Alumni Day, in order that the alumni may be given the opportunity to hear the speaker at the Senior Celebrations and may witness the graduation exercises. This would also enable the old alumni to meet together with the new on the eve of the graduates' departure from their Alma Mater.

Students Launch $10,000 Campaign

Gymnasium To Be Erected By September

With the organization of student committees, the student body has entered upon its drive for raising $10,000 for the men's gymnasium fund. Committees have been appointed to canvass every dormitory and to see personally every student in the College. The mass meeting held in the Jefferson Hall Gymnasium Monday evening gave the impetus for the launching of the campaign. President Chandler presented the plans for the building program at the College and spoke of the necessity of the students raising this allotted fund of $10,000. Vernon Geddy and Ashton Dovell, alumni of the College, delivered enthusiastic speeches, demanding that the student body enter upon this drive willingly and wholeheartedly. They asked that this student body leave behind a memorial to their endeavors while at this old College. Judge C. N. Fiedelson, in a forensic masterpiece reminding the hearers of the glory of the orators Cicero and Demosthenes, challenged the student body to show the real spirit and loyalty the old College of William and Mary demands from its student body. In spite of the fact that two-thirds of the student body did not have enough college spirit to come to the mass meeting, the committee has entered upon its commission of raising the desired fund, or else show to the public the reason why the College of William and Mary should not receive the financial aid of the public if the students refuse to aid themselves. Those students who love the old College, who drink at her fountain of knowledge, who revel in her glorious traditions, and who imbibe real college spirit, are willing to make every sacrifice to raise the $10,000. Though they are met by some "cheap skate" student who sneers at the idea of giving his quota to the gymnasium fund, there are yet a few red-blooded William and Mary students who are yet standing by their Alma Mater to adorn her with memorials wrought from the sacrifice of some of her devoted students.

If the student body of 800 refuses to raise $10,000, it does not deserve the $60,000 gift of a friend devoted to the College. How inappreciative does it appear when the students refuse to contribute the small quota which each student is asked to give,

Dr. Montgomery Delivers Lecture On Lucretius

Dr. W. A. Montgomery delivered a lecture on Lucretius Thursday before the Irene Leache Memorial at Norfolk, Virginia. It is to be remembered that Dr. Montgomery lectured on "Juvenal" last year before this organization. This scholarly address of last year so impressed the Club that it again invited Dr. Montgomery to speak Thursday.

After a brief survey of the historical setting of Lucretius the speaker examined the poet's great poem "De Rerum Natura" in its several points of interest. He declared that Lucretius possessed a poetic mind of the first order and that "De Rerum Natura" done in the hexameter of the epic was in infinitely more interesting form than the polished product of Virgil and Horace and further, that while the poem presented the whole philosophy of Epicureanism, it was such as the founder conceived it and not the system which had become debased through the centuries.

Continuing his subject, Dr. Montgomery discussed the evangelistic purpose of the poem. He pointed out that Lucretius is the precursor of modern science for in his book are to be found startling shadowings of such fundamental elements of modern science as the atomic theory, the nebular hypothesis, the wave theories as applicable to water, sound, light.

He concluded his lecture by explaining how the poet became the victim of a conspiracy of silence through the ages and how he was rescued from oblivion by the thinkers and philosophers of the eighteenth century.

Y. W. Cabinet Pre- sents "The Tents of the Arabs"

To an audience that filled the College Chapel to overflowing, the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet on Wednesday night, March 7, presented Lord Dunsany's play, "The Tents of the Arabs"; nor could all who came gain admittance. Professor Robert Blanton directed the production of the play.

The presentation was a remarkable one and a decided success. The cast was made up entirely of members of the Y. W. Cabinet. The enunciation of the players, which showed careful coaching, was clear and distinct and could be heard in all parts of the hall. The brilliant and colorful costuming was especially attractive. The scenery and lighting effects were excellent, due in no small measure to the efforts of Stanley Gay, Stage Manager.

The Y. W. Cabinet is contemplating staging the play again, probably in Cameron Hall, in order to give everyone a chance to see it.

Philomathean Literary Society Elects Officers For Spring Quarter

The Philomathean Literary Society, at its regular meeting Saturday night, March 10, elected officers for the spring term as follows:

President—Geo. A. Downing.

Vice-President—S. C. Hall.

Secretary—H. L. Gilbert.

Chaplain—J. P. Essex.

Sergeant-at-Arms—C. B. Quaintance.

C. R. Ball, Critic, and M. B. Reynolds, Treasurer, hold office throughout the year.

Judge C. N. Feidelson attended the meeting and made a stirring talk on literary society programs, especially on debating.

The Society is endeavoring to secure a first edition of Jurgen to replace the autographed copy presented to the College by the author, James Branch Cabell, who is an alumnus of the College and a former member of the Philomathean Society. With the exception of this book, which disappeared during the period of its suppression, the library contains a complete autographed set of Cabell's works, presented by him to his Alma Mater.

Philomatheans To Install Officers

The Philomatheans will hold their installation of officers for the spring quarter tomorrow night, in addition to the regular program.

The program will doubtless be featured by a warm debate on the subject, "Resolved, That student publications should not be subject to censorship by the faculty." M. B. Reynolds and S. C. Hall will uphold the affirmative and E. W. Wright and L. C. Warren the negative.

In addition, an oration by R. A. Kenney, readings by Jos. H. Binder and R. D. Cooke, and declamations by R. V. Perdue and E. B. Moffitt are included on the program.

J. Lesslie Hall Society Renders Musical Program

Musical selections made up the program of the J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society last Saturday night. Agnes Peacock played a violin solo accompanied by Elizabeth Heath. Ruth Burton gave a musical reading "The Happy Prince," with Pauline Landis as accompanist.

Strong Tennis Schedule Announced

When the William and Mary Tennis team encounters the Country Club of Virginia on March 24, in Richmond, it will be the first, as well as the hardest, match of the season. Considering the fact that the Country Club team will be composed entirely of professional racketeers, the William and Mary team will be content to hold their opponents to close scores. Polard, Cline, Wilshin and Peterson compose the William and Mary tennis team who, together with Doctors Robb and Rowe and Professor Councilman of the faculty, hope to turn in even a better account of themselves than they did last year against these formidable opponents.

Exclusive of the above match, Manager F. F. Cline has arranged the most pretentious schedule yet undertaken by a William and Mary tennis team. The complete schedule consists of eight matches, as follows:

April 13—Hampden-Sidney, here.

April 21—Randolph-Macon, Ashland.

April 27—Richmond University, here.

May 4—Randolph-Macon, here.

May 7—University of Virginia, Charlottesville (pending).

May 11—Hampden-Sidney, Hampden-Sidney.

May 14—V. P. I., Blacksburg (pending).

May 26—Richmond University, Westhampton.

All indications are that the team which last year won every collegiate match played by it and was runner-up in the Middle Atlantic Tournament in Richmond, being finally overcome by Georgetown University in a hotly contested match for first place, is due for an even more successful year on the courts.

Manager Cline Announces Tennis Schedule

Manager Cline of the tennis team announces that matches for this spring have already been scheduled with Randolph-Macon and Hampden-Sidney Colleges. Two matches will be played with each of these institutions. Games with the University of Virginia, the University of Richmond, and the Country Club of Virginia are pending. Other colleges will be added to the schedule if the financial conditions of the Athletic Association permits.

Tennis Club Organizes

At a meeting of men interested in tennis it was decided to organize a Tennis Club. The chief object of the Club is to build new courts and to regulate the etiquette of tennis players. At present a few men practically monopolize the courts but seldom do anything towards their upkeep.

The Club has already begun work on two new courts and it expects to build others soon. Each member pays a fee of fifty cents upon joining the Club and must help in building new courts and keeping them in good condition. No person who is not a member of the Tennis Club may play on the courts of the Club without paying a small fee. However, anyone who wishes to join may do so upon paying the fifty cent fee. If you are interested see F. F. Cline.

Later in the spring the Club will present a slow-action motion picture of Johnson and other tennis players of national repute.

Monk White May Coach Newport News High Grid Team

Fairmont Richmond White, better known as Monk White by his numerous friends and followers in the Tidewater, has received an offer to coach at Newport News High for the coming year, according to the Newport News Daily Press. White had already received flattering offers from several high schools and preparatory schools, and it is not known which one of them the Indian star will accept.

White has not only earned three baseball and four football monograms, but has also won a high scholastic standing, having many "A" and "B" credits. He is equipped to teach in the class room as well as on the gridiron. The combination should command a very good remuneration.

Nat. Webb, who has coached Newport News with so much success for the past four years, is resigning to practice law in the sea side city. Nat Webb is a graduate of William and Mary and former gridiron star under Coach Driver. While coach at Newport News, Webb has turned out one State championship football team. Since the arrival of Webb, Newport News High has suffered but few defeats in football and comparatively few in baseball.

Webb has sent some good men to his Alma Mater, and it is the hope of many students on the campus that White and the Newport News authorities may come to an agreement, and William and Mary continue to get the choice of the Newport News High School athletes.

Prospects For Successful Track Season Promising

Return Of Only Four Letter Men Offset By Wealth Of New Material

Tucker Jones, who is usually anything but optimistic at the beginning of the season, has expressed himself as being very optimistic for the track outlook for William and Mary this season. This statement coming, as it does, from Tucker Jones so early in the season, is the brightest indication for a banner year in track that could possibly be found. Approximately fifty men are working out every day under his personal guidance on Cary Field, and practically every man who has been out since the beginning of the season has begun to show improvement already in some or all the events for which he is training.

Some of the reasons for this unusual optimism may be found in the resume of the present material: Captain J. C. Chandler can always be depended upon to take first place, in either the half or the mile events, and usually in both. "Tighty" Moore in practice on Cary Field has been able to throw the javelin 175 feet on several occasions. It will be remembered that a 172 ft. throw took first place in the South Atlantic Meet last year. We feel safe in counting on him for taking five points from any of our opponents in the javelin throw. "Red" Hancock is showing up well in the 440, having led the Indian cinder path men in this event last year. Judging from the practices, he will have great deal of opposition from the freshmen out for this position. A. A. Hooff won first place in 50 yard dash held at the Richmond Athletic Club in the fall against Richmond College. He is one of the most promising men for the 100 yard dash. Among the other men out

Shifts In the Infield Likely

In order to speed up the infield and strengthen the hitting power of the outer garden, Ferdie Chandler, last year's regular catcher, is likely to be shifted to right field, giving the receiving end to Chalkley who is as effective behind the home plate as Chandler. Monk White is slated to return to his natural position in center field, if it is found that either Todd, Love, or Denton can fit in at second base. "Scrap" Chandler, who was second heaviest hitter last year with a 388 average, is sure of a regular berth on the team. Westbrook and Moss are showing up well in the outfield.

Of course, the old stand by's, Capt. Cooke, Lowe and Hicks, can be expected to appear in their regular positions when the umpire yells, "Play Ball!"

With the first game of the hardest schedule the Indians have had in many years only two weeks off, inclement weather has worked against any consistent practice.

The Indians open up their season by a game with Union Theological Seminary here March 24.

HERE AND THERE

YALE HEADS "BIG SIX" FIVES

The Yale five has just completed one of the most successful basketball seasons it has had in years by defeating the strong Cornell team and winning the championship in the Big Six League. Yale five was coached by Joe Fogarty, an old professional. Yale, like Virginia, has just given up the policy of using graduate coaches to the possible exclusion of better men of other affiliations. This is the first year that Yale has been a factor in the basketball world in many moons.

DRIVER TO USE DOBIE SYSTEM

The announcement that the Dobie system will be continued by Coach Driver will doubtless be sweet music to the ears of the students and football devotees who see in the system installed here last fall by Bill Ingram a panacea for all our gridiron troubles. Coach Driver's close study of that system last summer, together with the personal instruction he expects to get from Dobie this summer, should fit him to handle the situation this fall with credit to himself and the team. His task will be made some easier by the familiarity of the letter men with the system and the utilization of Bob Wallace who gained invaluable experience as a line coach under Ingram last year. If the new coach receives the same support and co-operation that was given Ingram, it is certain that he will be more than willing to be judged by the results his team makes. Every Indian will do his part in support of the new regime.

RAISING GYMNASIUM FUND

The $10,000 Student Drive for the Men's Gymnasium is now in full swing. Every honest and loyal student of William and Mary is furnishing his support and effort in raising the fund. A real college spirit is beginning to ascend upon some of the students, as the glad tidings of a new era for William and Mary are being ushered in. A true college spirit and a genuine loyalty is beginning to permeate a few students. The fates have been kind enough to bring to bear upon a few students that the time has come for a concerted troupe action, as the success of raising the fund will be commensurate with the attitude of the student body as a whole.

While this is the attitude of, perhaps, one-third of the student body, there are a few so-called William and Mary students who have declared themselves most obnoxiously as not being in favor of giving a cent to the College. A few of these students, having drunk at the fountain of this Institution for two and three years, feel that they will receive no more benefit from the College, and are too selfish to possess any spirit of altruism. Would that such students had never defiled the sacred walls of this College by darkening the entrance of its portals, and would that such students would sequester themselves in some nook and corner and there remain in their abode of selfishness and in their realm of disloyalty.

There is one class of students in College which is not able financially to contribute the quota, but, mark you, this class of students will contribute its quota by being college-spirited enough to ask friends to make a contribution to the fund. The class of students which the committee in charge of raising the fund fears is that class of inappreciative and selfish students, which is able to contribute to the fund but not stopping at this refusal, will wield a bad influence upon other students of the College.

This student drive is a monetary test of loyalty to the College. It is a test which asks comparatively nothing from the student body, being merely a privilege allowed from which the students can reap all the advantage. It is your opportunity. Will you grasp it?

Was your conspicuousness by your absence from the mass meeting of the student body an index of your college spirit? If it is, few are of the ghosts which protect this venerable College from vandals and parasites.

DEATH OF HON. NORVELL L. HENLEY

William and Mary has just lost one of its best friends and staunchest supporters in the death of Honorable Norvell L. Henley, resident of Williamsburg and delegate from this district to the State Legislature, who died Tuesday in Richmond after a brief illness. He is an alumnus of William and Mary, and he has always taken a deep interest in the College. Mr. Henley early distinguished himself as a champion of the cause of William and Mary in the Legislature and has more than once saved the William and Mary appropriation.

The Flat Hat conveys its sympathies to Mr. Henley's family in its bereavement.

Communication

At the conference of the Garden Clubs of Virginia held at the College of William and Mary recently by invitation of President J. A. C. Chandler, a suggestion was made that a Garden Club committee be formed in the Woman's Organization of the town. The Educational and Civic Association has appointed such a committee and has outlined a program which it hopes will contribute to the beauty of our town and the attractiveness of the College. The town and the College should go hand in hand along any line for the improvement of either.

I have been asked to put several matters before the students of the College and feel that a letter to the Flat Hat is the best method. We feel that we can count on the co-operation of the student body in the work we have in mind. The plots down the middle of the streets are to be reseeded. The Town Council has promised to replace the "Keep off the Grass" signs which disappeared so mysteriously last fall. Every one will be asked to cross the plots only by designated paths. The force of your example will be a great factor in making others walk the straight and narrow paths. Here is an example of how the town children look up to and imitate the College girls. One little girl was telling how the school authorities had requested them not to pick the flowers blooming in the plots, and she said, "Why do they ask us not to if the College girls do? I saw two girls pull every one in bloom today." In time we hope to fill all the plots with bulbs, and what a vision of loveliness our streets will be with the daffodils blooming down its length, and the parking places filled with well-kept grass. We of the South are careless of appearance of some things. What we need in education is community pride, and an appreciation of the beauty of blooming flowers and the hatred hideousness of trash and waste paper about our streets and grounds. Williamsburg loves her students and wants them to feel they have a part in making and keeping the town beautiful. Let us all work together for "Our Town."

MRS. R. M. CRAWFORD.

Sigma Upsilon Elects New Members

Sigma Upsilon Literary Fraternity, meeting Thurs. night, March 8, elected Mr. L. C. Green to membership. Other members in the student body are: J. G. Pollard, Jr., J. S. Jenkins, Jr., W. A. Dickinson, E. W. Brauer, Geo. A. Downing, R. A. Kenney, R. E. Kennard, C. R. Ball, E. B. Moffitt and S. C. Hall. Faculty members are: Dr. J. L. Hall, Dr. W. A. Montgomery, Judge C. N. Feidelson and Professors J. C. Lyons, A. P. Elliott, L. W. Simmons and Robert Blanton.

The question of censorship of student publications was brought up in the meeting and received wide discussion.

Judge Feidelson reported the acceptance by the Poets' Club of Norfolk of the invitation extended by the fraternity to hold one of its readings at the College. This reading will probably be held in April. Plans are underfoot for the organization here at that time of a "Poets' Society of Virginia."

Thirty-four different countries were represented in the International Student Conference at Toronto, Canada, November 24-29, 1922, under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association. The conference discussed the world movement against alcoholism and its relation to students.

Physical Development Requisite for College Degree

Rules governing Pi Delta Epsilon's Annual Intercollegiate Editorial Contest have been approved by the fraternity's Grand Council. The unusual interest aroused by the subject, "Physical Development as a Requisite for the College Degree," has resulted in a deluge of questions.

For the information of every instructor in English or rhetoric and the student body in general, the Contest Rules are printed herewith:

1. Contest will open January 29, 1923, and will close February 28, 1923, at midnight.
2. Editorials submitted may not exceed 500 words.
3. Type or write legibly on one side of sheet only.
4. Write an assumed name in the upper left hand corner of each sheet.
5. On the face of an envelope write this assumed name, enclosing a sheet of paper on which is written your own name, age, home city, class and local college address and telephone number.
6. Seal this envelope carefully and pin or clip it to your editorial.
7. Then hand it to your instructor in English or rhetoric or, if not compulsory as a class-room assignment, mail it to W. A. Dickinson, local chairman.

Editorials will then be sent directly to Cecil F. Gordon, Sigma Phi Epsilon House, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H.

Pi Delta Epsilon's Contest of 1921-22 was won by William W. K. Freeman, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Second prize was won by Shelby H. Atchley, of the University of Idaho; Ralph K. Chase, of Union College and William J. Woods, of Hamilton College tied for third place.

Honorable mention was accorded: Frank A. Rickey, Southwestern Louisiana Industrial Institute; Peter H. DeVries, Hope College; John A. McLeod, Furman University; Carl H. Farman, University of Southern California; Ira S. Fritz, Muhlenberg College; G. Felter Wendell, Bucknell University; Sydney S. Biro, University of California; Jesse Clark, University of Pennsylvania; Ralph Lipson, New York University; and Lester C. Lewis, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Design of Medal

Pi Delta Epsilon's Medals, in gold, silver and bronze, are circular in shape, display the antique ink-well, crossed quills and symbols of the fraternity. The reverse side is engraved with the winner's name, date and description of the contest. Thus far, only four medals are in existence.

Restoration of Louvain University

Hunter College, with a pledge of $2,500, is the first institution of higher education in the United States to announce a contribution to the campaign for completion of the $1,000,000 fund for restoration of Louvain Library.

New York State College, Albany, also has made a pledge to the fund: $1,000 for one of the fifty bells which will form the carillon in the tower of the restored library.

Renewal of the campaign for America's war memorial in Belgium was begun in New York State December 3. Since that date, both the College of the City of New York and

New York University have been making canvasses for the fund which have not yet been completed.

The campaign in New York extends not only to the universities and colleges, but into all the public schools of the state. An estimate made from the reports already received indicates the public schools of New York City alone will contribute $25,000 toward restoring the famous library.

Universities and colleges in other states will participate in the campaign during the early months of 1923.

The national committee is headed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, and has as members many of the best known educators of the United States.

Famous Alumni of William and Mary

MONCURE ROBINSON

Moncure Robinson, one of America's famous civil engineers, began his career by getting his A. M. Degree from William and Mary at the age of sixteen. Born in Richmond in 1802, he entered the Gerardine Academy at the age of six where he remained until he entered William and Mary.

Under Professor Fremont there it is said that he acquired such a perfect knowledge of French that in after years it was a passport for him to the halls and studios of the Paris savants. He also made rapid advancement in mathematics and science, and received his A. M. in 1818. In the same year, the Board of Public Works of Virginia sent out a corps of engineers to make a topographical survey from Richmond to the Ohio River. Young Robinson eagerly volunteered his services but was refused on account of his youth. However, he stuck to his purpose and accompanied the party without pay, and in place of being a follower he soon became a leader of the party.

In 1821 he was appointed chief engineer in widening and extending the James River Canal. Three years later he went to France to become professionally acquainted with the public works, especially the harbours, and to attend lectures at a French University. Later he visited in Holland, England and Wales where he met many famous men of his profession.

Shortly after his return in 1827, he made a survey for the Pottsville and Danville Railroad, the first railroad constructed in the country. Three years later he built for the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad the long bridge over the James River at Richmond, a structure remarkable for its economical cost. From it has sprung the iron lattice bridge so much used now in Europe.

Robinson began the crowning achievement of his career in 1834 by the construction of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. In 1840 the Gowan and Marx locomotive was completed after his plans. Reports of this engine reached the Czar of Russia with the result that he wanted Mr. Robinson to take over the grand system of railroads he was about to inaugurate for Russia. However, Robinson declined the offer.

His last professional act was to examine the New York Harbour to decide a suitable position for the great dry dock, now at Wallabout. He retired from active life in 1847, but later he consented to forward the great Metropolitan route connecting Baltimore with the South, besides establishing the Old Bay Line of boats running between Norfolk and Baltimore.

ALUMNI NEWS

Miss Kathleen (Kate) Stone, who no doubt has been missed on the campus since Christmas, is now assistant principal and instructor of Latin in Bealeton High School, Bealeton, Va.

S. I. N. A.

The University of Alabama held its initial tennis practice recently and prospects for a good team are very bright. At least five intercollegiate matches will be held, and there is a possibility of Alabama going to the S. I. C. tournament. Two matches have been arranged with Mississippi Aggies and the University of Mississippi, and one with Tulane.

The All-Virginia team picked by Coach Nee of Lynchburg College, consisted of the following players: Lake, Washington and Lee, and Carroll, V. P. I., forwards; Brittingham, V. P. I., center; Rhodes, V. P. I., and Schneider, Washington and Lee, guards. Either Rhodes or Schneider would captain this team.

The All-Southern team picked by six Atlanta sports writers after the final game last Saturday night consist of the following men: Gatchell, Mississippi Aggies, and Roane, Ga. Tech, guards; Redd, University of Chattanooga, center; Smith, Mercer, and Perkins, Mississippi Aggies were selected as forwards. This makes the second consecutive year that Redd has made the mythical team, and he is considered to be the best player that has ever played in a Southern tournament. He is captain, manager, coach, and all around player for his team.

The University of West Virginia has been considering the Honor System for some time, with the view of "trying it out" at West Virginia. But one of their professors made the statement that he would vote against it a few days ago. When asked why, explained, "Since the Honor System has been under discussion on the campus a number of electric light bulbs have been stolen from Mechanical Hall by students, books from the Library have been mutilated and stolen, the private reference works of a certain professor on the campus have been cut and valuable portions taken from them, and the property in the class rooms has been destroyed by the students themselves. If students will stoop to such petty acts as these, will they not stoop to greater dishonor when the instructor is absent from the examination room?"

"Among the highly useful student organizations is the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association. On the completion of twenty years of active work, it gives evidence of vitality. Not only has this association seen and responded to the need of securing intelligent support for the prohibition laws of this country, but it has heard the call for other lands. Certainly every Christian student must not only wish the I. P. A. well, but also set himself by every means to cultivate prohibition sentiment not only in this country, but wherever men are cursed by the liquor business."

The Whitehall Literary Society program for the last meeting consisted of a number of readings. Helen Lannigan read Kipling's "Ballad of East and West," which was followed by a number of Modern Poems read by Muriel Valentine. Agnes Parker gave a short talk on "Thomas Nelson Page and Italy," and Dorothy Zirkle read one of Stephen Leacock's nonsense novels "A Hero Ain't Home Spun."

Henry Ford's Paper Publishes W. & M. Citizenship Creed

Attracts Nation-Wide Attention

Sunday's Times Dispatch states that the William and Mary Citizenship Creed has attracted nation-wide attention.

Henry Ford's paper, the Dearborn Independent, publishes it with comments, as also the Woman's Citizen, the national organ of the League of Women Voters. The Twin City Sentinel, of Winston-Salem, N. C., contained an editorial in which it says the publication of the creed should be widespread and that it should be read, re-read and preserved by all citizens. Mrs. T. G. Winter, of Minneapolis, Minn., President of the Federation of Women's Clubs, refers to it as a remarkable tabloid statement of the duties of citizenship.

A handsome new edition of the creed has just appeared. It will be distributed among the high schools of the State.

when one friend of the College has offered to give $60,000 to aid in building a men's gymnasium. There is no question but what the students can raise $10,000; the only question is, will the students do it?

The new gymnasium, which will be located eighty feet from the library, jutting into the edge of the freshman athletic field, will be erected by September at a cost of $125,000. President Chandler has announced that if the student body raises $10,000 by May 1, the construction of the building will then begin. The gymnasium will be a handsome structure, within which is a regulation swimming pool, a large basketball court, a Y. M. C. A. room, a spacious assembly room, offices for athletic directors, athletic equipment rooms, a museum room and a large balcony accommodating several hundred people. Between the swimming pool and the bowling alleys will be reversible seats accommodating spectators of either sport.

The new dormitory for men will be located on the Richmond Road, back of the library. The appropriation for this dormitory is well-nigh in view, since President Chandler and his assistant, Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin, are assured of getting $100,000.

President Chandler and the friends of the College are contributing their part. Are the students of this College doing their part? Are they friends to the College? The Gymnasium Fund Committee cannot believe that the student body will allow the great opportunity of getting a men's gymnasium pass by. Faith, loyalty and willingness will put a new gymnasium on the campus. It is yours for your love for Alma Mater.

At the time of going to press, the Gymnasium Fund Committee has received contributions from the Palace Theatre and from a few students. The names of the contributors will be printed in the next issue of The Flat Hat, March 30.

together with two sons, Richardson L. Henley, a student at the Georgia School of Technology, in Atlanta, Ga., and John Turner Henley, lawyer, of Onancock, Va.

Mr. Henley was always a true friend to the College and championed its cause in the House whenever the opportunity presented itself. He was at a disadvantage in his advocacy, at times standing alone, yet he never permitted politics or other influences to move him from his convictions. This was true not only with respect to his work for William and Mary, in all his dealings, he was honest, straight-forward, firm in his stand for right. The Newport News Daily Press of March 14 said of him: "But what boots it whether a man's career be long or short, if in his life-time his mind is set on something that is good, if he has walked uprightly and served his day and generation with fidelity.

Mr. Henley had not lived out the span of life as set by the Psalmist, but while he lived he walked in his integrity, he was successful in his profession and in his undertakings and he guided his affairs with discretion, but he found time to do his part of the public service and he served well and honorably. We make record of Norvelle L. Henley that he was a good man and a good citizen; and his death is a personal sorrow and a public bereavement."

Pictures At Palace Theatre This Week

4:00, 7:30 and 9:00 O'clock

MONDAY

"The Wonderful Chance" is the title of the new Selznick production starring Eugene O'Brien, coming to the Palace on Monday. It is an absorbing crook story, startling things happen when "Swagger" Barlow, a master crook, got his chance to appear in select society. The program includes Fox News.

TUESDAY

"Back Home and Broke," Tom Meighan's newest picture, will appear at the Palace on Tuesday. George Ade, America's leading humorist, wrote this story especially for his friend, Tom Meighan. A big comedy-drama racy with wholesome American fun. Lila is the girl. A Snub Pollard Comedy furnishes the curtain-raiser.

WEDNESDAY

"The Hero," a Gasnier production is the feature of Wednesday's program. It gives a slice of throbbing life, simple but dramatic, a story of peace heroes, a tale of valor and sacrifice performed far from the field of battle—heroism without heroics. A comedy is the additional attraction.

THURSDAY

In "A Daughter of Luxury," we have lovely Agnes Ayres as the girl who lost a fortune and found her own heart. See what an heiress will do when she is suddenly forced out on the streets without a cent. Not since "Forbidden Fruit" has Agnes Ayres had such a pleasing role. Kinogram News will open the program.

FRIDAY

"Over the Border," starring Bettie Compson and Tom Moore, will be exhibited Friday. Those who remember Bettie in "To Have and to Hold," and "The Little Minister," or who remember Tom with Mary Miles Minter in "The Cowboy and the Lady," will not want to miss this picture—a treat as rare as any of the above mentioned pictures is in store for them. In addition, a Harold Lloyd comedy will round out a perfect evening's entertainment.

SATURDAY

After considerable absence from Palace programs, Tom Mix's name again appears, billed for Saturday in "Catch My Smoke." It's a blazing story of a fiery man who left plenty of smoke behind. There's mystery and death in this great adventure picture. A comedy, "Step Lively Please," is also on the program.
